

SUMMER 2024 FRIPP INTERNSHIP ANNOUNCEMENT

UNC Greensboro and the Greensboro History Museum are pleased to announce the Gayle Hicks Fripp Internship for a UNCG Museum Studies graduate student for the summer of 2023. The internship will offer valuable professional experience at a Smithsonian Affiliate and American Alliance of Museums–accredited institution.

The internship honors Gayle Fripp, UNCG alumna, former museum assistant director and distinguished author, in recognition of her contributions to the field of public history and service to the Greensboro community. This is an excellent opportunity for a student to learn and apply best professional practices of museum education and interpretation. Working under the supervision of the museum's Education and Engagement staff, the intern will lead the development and implementation of the museum's 2024 Summer Program. The summer program is a free, two-hour experience for ages 5-13.

The Fripp intern will also assist with museum 1940s Flashback daylong public program and also have the opportunity, based on their interests, to support the creation of other educational initiatives, linked with community outreach. More broadly, the intern will perform a mix of public engagement and behind-the-scenes work, serve as a member of a project team, participate in different museum operations, and become familiar with a range of museum professions.

This internship offers a stipend of $3,000 ($2,000 as a UNCG graduate assistantship and $1,000 from GHM Inc.'s B. Craighead Davidson Endowment), and requires a minimum of 180 hours of work. Insurance, sick leave, social security and state and federal taxes are not included.

To apply, please submit the online form at <https://greensborohistory.org/internships>. You will need to attach the following three documents:

- 1. A personal statement describing your career plans and related experience, your reasons for seeking the internship, and how your efforts might benefit the museum;
